SUN BEAMS

By WALTER M. BARRETT

Caliornia's recent biennial campaign circus has passed in to the yellow pages of history and the state now settles back to get down to busi ness. We supported and voted for certain candidates. Last Tuesday's election pushed some of these into political graves. We have no apologies to make for our stand on men or issues. We hope that those of "our" candidates who were fortunate enough to be elected prove us right and we hope that the "opposition" candidates who survived can prove we erred in our judgement.

In the coming year California has a bigger task than electing a governor, as important as that may seem. We must try to sell the state by the Golden Gate Exposition and World's Fair. It is time for every village and hamlet to begin a "shine for '39" campaign that will c' an up the unsightly streets of small towns on the direct routes to the fair. It is time for the peoples of these communities to brush up their towns and make them attractive to the stranger within our gates. Democrat, Republican, Progressive or Socialist, every citizen should take the civic pride in their great state it deserves. Let's not be caught napping. Let's see to it that our town is not one of the sore spots that will drive people to the eastern World's Fair!

With the elections over for another two years, we must find something else to talk about. Why not start a campaign of our own to get more people to trade at home? After all, that issue is probably of more local importance than the recent state election and would ultimately result in more benefits for the community if it received the support of the local shoppers. We believe that the average shopper does most of his or her buying in Truckee, but there are many who have yet to see the personal advantage from trading at home. Only experience can teach them this fact and we urge that you give it a trial.

Now just a minute while we return to politics briefly and conclusively. We extend our heartiest congratulations to the winners and wish them all the success possible in their positions. To the losers we wish to express our regrets and trust that they will have better luck for losing than they could have had in victory.

For the first time in 40 years we in Truckee face a possibility of going through a winter without winter sports. It is so ordained by the powers that be anl cannot be helped, but it is a most regrettable fact. We can still hope for something to be done, but frankly, it sounds like the end of winter sports for the father of all winter sports of California.

While travel over the Donner Summit continued unmolested by the storms, there were times when the use of chains was necessary.

Truckee voters last Friday turned thumbs down on the proposal to permit the directors of the Truckee Public Utility District to float a bond issue for $66,000 for the purpose of installing a power plant on the Truckee river to provide the district with electrical energy.

The count was:

Against—185.
For—145.

A two-thirds majority in favor of the proposition was necessary for it to become effective and so the plan lost by approximately 75 votes.

The idea was sponsored by the directors of the district, C. E. Smith, C. B. White and F. S. Powell and Manager C. Edmunds. Opposition to the proposal was headed by the Sierra Pacific Power Company, with the local superintendent, Frank W. Gaiennie speaking publically against the plan. Hope Fades For Winter Sports at Local Meeting

No Interest Gained To Keep Activities Here In The Winter Months

SEEK PRIVATE INTEREST

Proposal Made to Turn Field, Equipment Over To Outsiders

Hopes that a last minute spurt of interest might be shown so that winter sports might be continued in Truckee this winter, waned this week as members of the chamber of commerce hopelessly discussed the advisibility of continuing the town's most prominent winter activity.

Truckee has had winter sports for some 40 years, this marking the first time that defininte plans have been dropped.

Suggestions that the equipment and facilities be turned over to a private interest were discussed and other problems concerning the sports were discussed without any decision being reached, the matter being put over until the meeting Monday.

At a meeting last Thursday, members of the volunteer fire department, who had tentatively considered sponsoring the winter sports in Truckee decided against the plan.

Chief Tom Dolley said the firemen interviewed several businessmen in town and that they were discouraged from taking over the project.

ARMISTICE DAY 1938——

When faces turn East toward Flanders' field this Armistice Day, they will look out upon a world that has fought much, suffered much, and learned little, since the big guns ceased firing in the Rhineland.

The first years that followed the jubilant day when a "Cease firing!" order carried its electrifying message around the earth, seemed,indeed, to hold a promise of enduring peace for a war-sickened world.

But who can say as much today, with the furnaces of munitions plants casting their ruddy glare across virtually every nation as it mocking the will of all peoples toward peace? And with the most utterly vanquished nation in that struggle twenty years ago now become the virtual lord and master of a continent, while a great power of the Orient successfully threatens to subdue another continent by violence?

Yet if America sees the war spirit mobilizing elsewhere and, while safegaurding herself with rearmament, chooses to keep herself disentangled, it is because she hates war, not fears it! A titanic struggle that took from the world 23 million lives, made refugees of 10 million, and orphaned nine million, indicts itself as mankind's most terrible enemy and well merits that hate.

That the valiant men America honors this day fought only to win the world enduring freedom from the bondage of war gods, entitles them to our high regard. The world needs no better ideal than theirs. Could the world learn to sacrifice for peace as boldly as they sacrificed for war, the shadow of future Armageddons need never darken another Armistice Day!

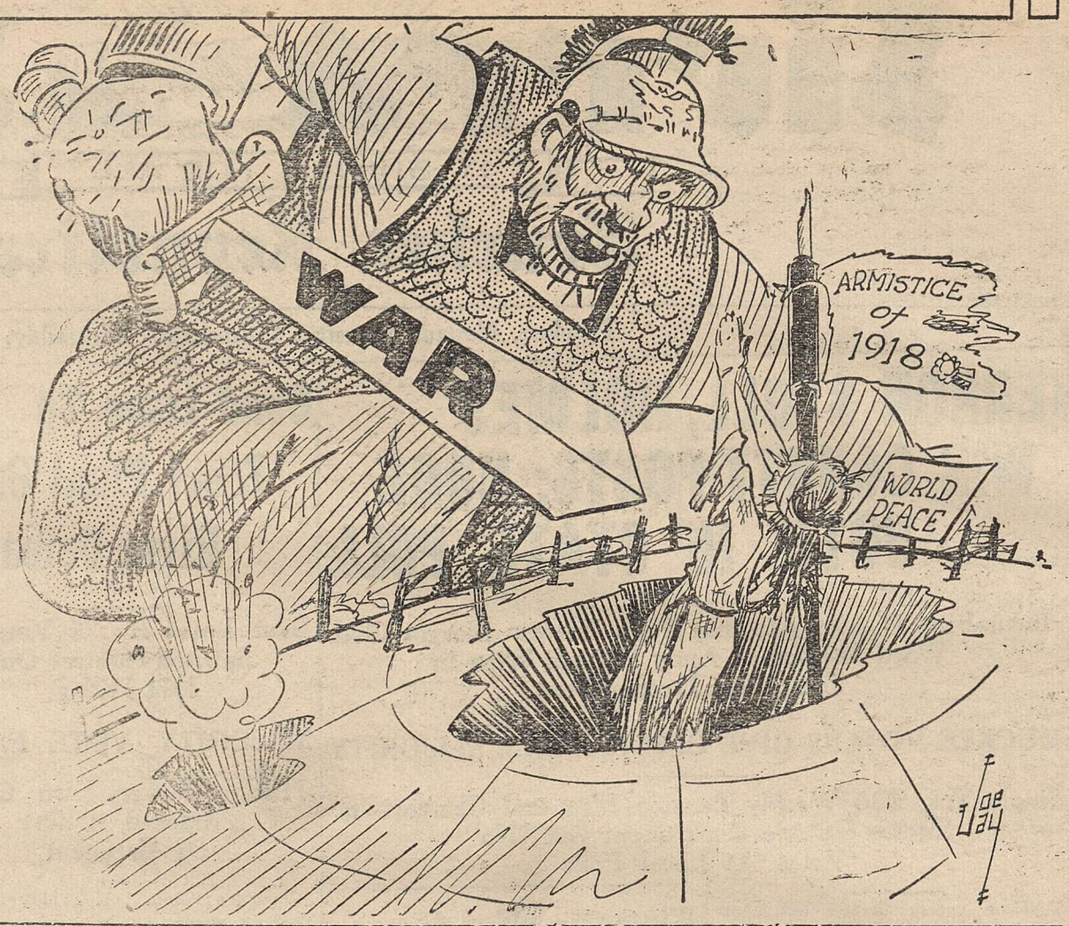

STRANGE TO CALIFORNIANS——

If the major concern of Californians, of all Americans—of all the peoples of the world, were to be expressed in a phrase, it could well be: "Concern for the future." Europe shivers in fear of war. Americans are apprehensive over increasing public debt and taxes, which are jeojardizing our economic future.

But strange to Californians is action of the Board of Education of Dayton, Ohio, in deciding to close its schools to 34,000 children for many weeks because the Board is unwilling to "encumber the future", in its own words, in face of a $61,939 deficit. To Californians the most costly and dangerous way of "encumbering the future" would be to stave off future debts by sacrificing present education of our children. We proved that during the worst years of the depression when, despite the utmost need for paring expenses, we refused to compromise our educational program and kept open doors of every Caliofrnia school.

There is a surety, grave cause for concern for the future in the alarming growth of deficits. These must be turned into balanced budgets—in city, state and ntion—else economic disaster is certain. But Dayton's way is not the wise way. Other ways are possible. Education is the only means of equipped the child to cope with the future—and the future of America is the future of the chidren in school today.

Need for Another Armistice

POLITICAL PARADE

by Clem Whitaker

Presidents are made, not in a day, nor in a three months' campaign, but in a carefully-calculated, long term build up.

For 1940, the build ups already have started, with boards of strategy quietly maneuvering behind the scenes and with ballons going up almost daily from the national capital as professional king-makers test out public sentiment.

Because it is the party in power, primary interest, at this stage of the game, centers on the Democratic high command. And the most insistent query is: "Who will be the New Deal candidate in 1940?"

Barring a World War, or some other emergency which might bring out the time tested war cry, "Don't switch horses in the middle of the stream", majority opinion leans to the view that President Roosevelt will not seek a third term. But there is no unanimity on the subject. And only the President and developments of the next two years can provide a definite answer.

If Mr. Roosevelt doesn't choose to run, what then?

Washington prophets, at this juncture, believe that the President favors WPA Administrator Harry L. Hopkins as his successor. There are toll-tale evidences on every hand that the Hopkins boom is under way, with indications that the President's son, "Jimmy Roosevelt, Thomas G. Corcoran and others of the White House inner circle have jumped on the Hopkins bandwagon.

Mr. Hopkins, however, is generally tagged as a leader of the "left wing" in the President's official family and the right-wingers in the party will have none of him. Collapse of the recent party "purge" hurt the Hopkins build up somewhat and those who refused to be purged can be expected to lead the fight against him if his name goes before the Democratic convention.

More conservative candidates for the Roosevelt mantle—and the nod may go eventually to one of this group—include Postmaster General Jim Farley, Secretary of State Cordell Hull, Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace and Vice President John Nance Garner.

THE MAN AT THE KEYHOLE

by Operative WB

Henry Ford, who trotted out a new car in the medium priced field for the fall auto shows, has his automotive engineers at work on still another model to be brought out the latter part of next year, according to our automotive scout. "The Flivver King" is reported making ready to compete with General Motors and Chrysler—with a car in each price class.

Republicans, meanwhile, are showing signs of strategy maneuvers also. Most important move in GOP circles is the apparent descision to hold the Republican National Convention after the Democratic convention has selected its nominee and adjourned. That move, admittedly, would give the Republicans a tactical advantage, as they could then pick the nominee best suited to joust with the New Deal candidate. And the GOP'ers, long on the outside looking in, can be expected to take full advantage of any breaks which come their way.

Where are the campaign pamphlets of yesterday? And who read them? Our statistical expert estimates that 128,000,000 pamphlets booklets, leaflets and postal cards were issued during California's 1938 battle of ballots. And you can add to that about a half a billion electiin cards. 'Twas the greatest barrage since Upton Sinclair, the ace pamphleteer, was aced out four years ago in the spectacular drive against "Sinclairism."

There's a new emblem on the high seas—a spread eagle in white on a red background. It sailed out of San Francisco a few days ago on the President Munroe, first vessel of the old Dollar line to clear harbor since the American President

In a voting card, which is available at all Asscoiated dealers in the West, the company asks if the public wants another series and what they want protrayed, giving an opprotunity to local boosters to advertise the Truckee-Tahoe area on an all west scale.

OLD LAKE STEAMER TO BE SUNK IN NEAR FUTURE IN MEMORY

TAHOE CITY, Nov. 10— "Finis" will be written to the final chapter of a part of Tahoe's early history soon when the little, all steel huuled steamer 'Meteor', one of the earliest to make its appearance on the lake, will be towed to a spot near Glenbrook harbor where water is estimated to be 60 feet deep, and sunk. W. S. Bliss, of the old Bliss Company, early day lumber millers of the Tahoe region, is reported to have purchased the boat t o commemorate the memory of his father, Duane L. Bliss who passed away in 1907. The hull, now dilapidated, its engine and parts removed, lies on the shore near the old machine shops at Tahoe City, where it will be freshly painted white before starting on its last sad journey. Many are the tales told about the seaworthy little craft, buffeted around by many a heavy storm, at times becoming stranded in a sheltered harbor waiting for t to abate. Mrs. Janet Watson recalls her father the late Capt. E. J. Pomin starting out in the early morning hours to be gone often for weeks. With four thriving lumber mills flourishing on the Nevada side of the lake, business was really ruching. The steamer was used during its lifetime for towing barges of logs, horses, provisions and even "knocked down" houses which were reassembled at their destination The Bliss house near Tahoe City is one of these. Later on the boat was used as a mail carrier. Sixty-two years old, it carried in its prime many of the noted men of the early days. It was assembled in 1876. The most notable of the famous men the boat carried was President U. S. Grant. The vessel was assembled at Tahoe at the time when from 500 to 700 men were employed in the logescapes durnietaon shrdlu mfdlwuyp ging industry.

Among the living who stoked her ancient firebox are E. H. Pomin, Bert Watson, George Bliss and Andy Sumpter. There are many who will refuse to go to the 'last rites', prefering to remember the rugged little craft as she was in here hey-day—when Tahoe's beauty and roughness challenged the pioneers.

'Buck' Watters has returned to Tahoe from the Auburn hospital after a period of recuperating from recent injuries.

Mooney Tries To Get Review Before High Court

WASHINGTON, Nov. 10—(UP)—Thomas J. Mooney Saturday renewed his 22 year old fight for freedom, coupling a new appeal to the U. S. supreme court with an unusual declaration to the court against arbitrary exercise of judicial power.

Attorneys for Mooney asked the court to reconsider its recent refusal to review his life sentence, imposed upon conviction of participation in the 1916 San Francisco Preparedness Day bombing. They demanded that, should the court refuse the new appeal, it at least state its reasons for doing so "in the interests of the preservation of our democratic form of government."

Childlikeness

JESUS said (Mark 10:14), "Suffer the little children to come unto me, and forbid them not: for of such is the kingdom of God." The great Teacher knew the lovableness and purity of the child thought. How the unquestioning innocence of a child must have appealed to him who constantly faced the unbelief and distrust of a world ready to destroy him! He understood children, and they came to him as naturally as the flower turns to the light, for the sweet, clean thought of a child accepts readily the loveliness of Love, wherever it is expressed. . . .

One may think that when he attains a certain age he will no longer express childlikeness; but this is not so, for childlikeness is the purity and innocency of thought which is untainted by the beliefs of the world. According to a modern dictionary, "childlike suggests those qualities of childhood which are worthy of respect or emulation;" while "childish" indicates "its less pleasing and admirable characteristics."

Paul said (I Corinthians 13:11), "When I was a child, I spake as a child, I understood as a child, I thought as a child: but when I became a man, I put away childish things." We can well afford to "put away childish things,"—the petty, trivial suggestions that come from mortal mind. In order not to be hampered by the "childish things" of material sense we must adopt the spiritual concept of existence. . . .

Mortals sometimes pride themselves upon their skeptical outlook on life, failing to realize that Life, God, is expressed only in loveliness and spiritual beauty. We cannot afford to carry with us day by day the burden that results from materiality. The egotism and conceit of mortal mind's claim to power tend to adulterate the confident and abiding sense of trust we should have in our Father-Mother God. Childlikeness includes joyousness, spontaneity, and a pure uplifted outlook on life. These we need so much in a world darkened by its own self-importance, troubled by wars and rumors of wars, the fears of mad ambition, and the pride of place and power.

In "Miscellaneous Writings" Mary Baker Eddy states (p. 110): "Beloved children, the world has need of you,—and more as children than as men and women; it needs your innocence, unselfishness, faithful affection, uncontaminated lives. You need also to watch, and pray that you preserve these virtues unstained, and lose them not through contact with the world."

Is it not probable that Jesus, in dealing with the self-assurance of the doctors of the law, the pharisaism of the priests and rabbis, the continual unbelief of the carnal mind, felt relief when there appeared before him the sweet, loving, wholesome purity of the child thought? Children, doubtless, recognized his tenderness and purity, and felt at home with him. He, likewise, felt at home with them, because of their sweet thinking. It is possible for all to include this same sweetness in their thinking, regardless of what mortal mind argues about age.

Genuine childlikeness is a very desirable evidence of right thinking. When one manifests enough humility to be childlike and teachable, one is blessed with a serene trust in God, good. True childlikeness never strives for place and power, is never tainted with selfish ambition or greed, for it has within itself all the loveliness of good.

The great Master left this statement, which may well be pondered by everyone (Mark 10:15): "Whosoever shall not receive the kingdom of God as a little child, he shall not enter therein."—The Christian Science Monitor.

The entire Democratic ticket of the Silver State, Nevada, was swept into office by substantial margins on the basis of complete returns from that state. The ticket was headed by E. P. Carville, former U. S. attorney, for governor and Sen. P. A. "Pat" McCarran, anti-court bill Democrat, for reelection. Congressman James Scrughum was reelected over Harry Stewart, his G.O.P. opponent, by a two to one margin.

McCarran was opposed by former liberal Republican senator Tasker Oddie and Carville by John A. Fulton of the Mackay School of Mining, a campus affiliate of the University of Nevada.

"I'll give the very best I have in experience and ability to the citizens of Nevada," the governor elect said. "I am very happy in the display of confidence the people have shown me, and I know that I'll prove worthy of them.,'

Republicans seemed to have captured Wahoe County, Nevada, despite the fact that the Democratic state ticket carried there.

Four Republians were leading in assembly races while two Democrats apparently had won the other seats from the county.

Reublican H. C. Heidtman had a commanding lead over Democrat J. Foy, incumbent for the county's state senate post.

Incumbent Republican District Attorney Ernest Brown defeated Democrat Gordon Rice and Independent Kendrick Johnson.

Sheriff Ray Root beat his G.O.P. opponent Andrew Welliver in his fight for reelection.

Arizona Vote Scandal Causes Investigations

PHOENIX, Ariz., Nov. 10 —(UP)— An asserted plot to "steal" the Arizona gubernatorial election last week exploded a comparatively quiet campaign and turned it into a series of official and private investigations

The official inquiry was started by a discharged WPA worker, Roland Ross, who signed an affidavit saying he came here form Kansas City with a group of workers "to carry" last September's Democratic gubernatorial primary election for R. T. Jones, a state senator.

Maricopa County Attorney John Corbin said he was making 'a complete investigation of charges made in the Ross affidavit," and hinted at a grand jury inquiry into the affair in which the ousted WPA worker said he changed '50 to 100 ballots' in one Phoenix precinct alone.

Dr. Townsend Studies Tax System of Hawaii, Finds Favorable Reaction to Plan

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 10— Dr. F. E. Townsend, who recently returned from the Hawaiian Islands where he made an extensive study of the Gross Income Tax Plan, now in operation there, reports consistent reduction in rates of taxation under this new regime.

"I was truly amazed," said Dr. Townsend, "to find that under these declining rates of taxation, the island government has in three years paid off a government debt of $1,500,000. Furthermore, I learned that the wages of all public employees had been increased 10 per cent. More over, the government, since adopting the Gross Income Tax Plan, has accufulated a surplus of more than $1,000,000."

Prominent advocates of the Townsend National Recovery Plan together with those closely associated with Dr. Townsend realize that the Gross Income Tax Plan, now in effect in Hawaii, is playing a big part in the continued success of the Townsend Plan on the mainland.

Dr. Townsend further stated upon his return that "We are now doubly sure that the systems of distribution of tax money, which we advocate, is equally sound and that it offers the most rational method of restoring prosperity to our nation as well as stabilizing business on a scale never before enjoyed by any nation."

North Canadians Switch To Oil Burners Heating For Covenience & Thrift

REGINA, Sas., Nov. 10— Saskatchewan's tough northerners, those dwellers of the wilds, are turning modern.

From Goldfields, the province's far north mining town, comes word of the sale of oil-burning heating units in such quantity that the dealer in the little town of 1,000 has a problem in how to fill the orders fast enough.

The convenience of the oil burner undoubtedly is the reason for the sales. As well, growing scarcity of a ready supply of wood has influenced the change.

FSA ACCUSED OF POOR ADMINISTRATION FOR CALIFORNIA MIGRANTS

BAKERSFIELD, Nov. 10— Federal migrant relief policies in California are aimed, not at taking care of the penniless hordes, but at changing the social and economic complexion of California.

That was the charge today of T. W. McManus, secretary of the Calfornia Citizens' Association, in a scathing denouncement of the Farm Security Administration.

"If the Farm Security Administraton is so interested in feeding the poor people, why doesn't it feed them at home?" McManus demanded.

The truth of the matter is that the left-wingers controlling the FSA and the WPA want to change the complexion of California—socially and economically."

McManus pointed out that registration in the Valley counties where migrants from Oklahoma, Texas, Arkansas and Missouri have congregated is swelling, whereas San Francisco county registrations have increased less than 1 per cent in the last two years. Madera county increased 35.87 per ent, Merced 23.87 per cent, Kern 22.4 per cent, Kings 15.51 per cent, Tulare 15.91 per cent, Stanislaus 15.32 per cent, Mariposa 9.55 per cent and Fresno 7.44 per cent.

McManus said that with winter on its way California is faced with a gargantuan relief problem. He said that the State Relief Administrator reported that 900,000 persons in California are living on actual relief.

Governor Merriam Issues Book Week Proclamation

SACRAMENTO, Nov. 10 —(UP)— Recognizing the fact that California is a leader among the states in distribution and reading of books, Gov. Frank F. Merriam has proclaimed Book Week from November 13 to 19.

"For the past two decades librarians, educators, bookmen and others have united in an effort to interest Americans in books and their place in cultural life," Merram said. "The state of California has definitely demonstrated its belief in education as the bulwark of democracy. Our school system and our public libraries offer tangible proof of our conviction that every citizen has not only the right to secure an education but has also the facilities to continue the educative process throughout his life time."

California's Name Traced Back to Berber Influence By French Historian

SACRAMENTO, Nov. 10 —(UP)— The name California means just a state in the union to most persons but it opens an intriguing chapter of history to those who conjure romance and drama in the colorful past of the west oast.

Three murals in the assembly room of the California state building in Los Angeles depict much of the background on the naming of the state.

The first application of the name "California" to the territory now bearing that name, was probably the account in an original document of the voyage of Juan Rodriques Cabrillo in 1542, the first white man of record to sail along the coast of the present state of California. By this time the namehad become affixed to the territory known today as Baja (lower) California.

There are several theories as to the origin of the name, but one generally accepted among historians is that it originated n a popular Spanish romance, "Las Sergas de Esplandian" (The Deeds of Esplandian) by Ordinez de Montalvo, published in Toledo between 1510 and 1521. While studying Spanish literature in 1862 Edward Everett Hale ran across the old novel describing a fabulous island named "California," nhabited by a race of amazons ruled over by Calafia, a queen. The island abounded in minerals and precious stones

The book became popular in Europe and it is reasonable to assume that the followers of Cortez knew of the legend. The name "California" o land of Calafia, is supposed to have been taken by Montalvo from the name of an ancient Berber city mentioned in the great French epic poem "Chanson de Roland." A French investigator, Boissonade, suggests that the name is composed of two Berber Arabic words, "kalaa" (a fortified city) and "inferne" o "iferne" (its principal citizens.) The chief "kalla-iferene" or capital city of Barbara in the 11th century was so ancient that its founding was attributed to giants.

It is believed the name was applied to Lower California by the followers of Bolanos in 1541. The next year, when Cabrillo explored the coast, the name was mentioned as one well-known and established. At that time, it was applied to all the territory from Cape San Lucas, in lower California, as far north as the mysterious Strait of Anian and there fore included Upper California a well.

There were no permanent settlements in Upper California from t time of Cabrillo's explorations to 17 69. That year, Jose de Galvez se out from New Spain the "Sacred E pedition" to occupy and garrison San Diego and Monterey, and to establis Missions Captain Portola, accompanied by Junipero Serra, the father president of the Franciscan Missions, reached San Diego with one land unit on July 1, 1769. The final success of the expedition and the subsequent prosperity of the mission were due to Fra. Serra and his successor, Father Fermin Lasuen.

In 1804, "Nueva California" became the legal name of the province known today as the state of California. Under the later Mexican regime, this was replaced by "Alta California," the nafe in common usage

Commodore John D. Sloat entered the harbor of Monterey, the capital province, in 1846, and took possession of the territory in the name of the United States. Three years later under the leadership of Governor Bennet Riley (the military governor appointed by President Polk, Congress having failed to provide a territorial government) a constitution was drawn up and ratified at an election held November 13, 1849.

On December 15, the newly elected legislature met and the state began to function, but it was not until September 9, 1850, that California was admitted to the Union.
